United Church News

We were glad to see so many present on Sunday to hear Rev. Pentland's sermon, the theme of which was, 'Christians are Peculiar People'.

The congregation is reminded of the Special Labor Day Service to be held at 12 noon Sunday, August 31st. We hope to have a record attendance.

Commencing Sunday, September 7th services will be held at 2 p.m.

S. S. classes will not resume until a Sunday after the schools have reopened. Don Petrak will be Superintendent for the next term and would appreciate receiving any help the members can give. Several teachers are required and instead of just sending your children why not come with them and help Don build a better and bigger Sunday School.

Commencing Sunday, August 27th the Church Bulletin will be issued to each family. Member and adherents are requested to please mail or phone any church news items to Rev. Pentland, Magrath not later than Thursday of each week.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Macge were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Binder and four children of Edmonton, also Mr. and Mrs. Vern Spake of Lloydminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Allan and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tollstrup motored to Great Falls to spend the weekend.

The ladies of the congregation are asked to remember the opening fall meeting of the W. A. at the home of Mrs. Hilda Wilde on Thursday September 4th at 8 p.m. Several important items are on the agenda and a good attendance is requested. Members are asked to please bring their talent money and dues still outstanding. All ladies of the congregation are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Sharon Inakire, Mission B. C. is visiting with Neva Otsuka. We are glad to report that Neva is improving each day.

Mr. and Mrs. Doral Stone entertained a few friends Friday evening in honor of the Cal Hills. A wolver roast and corn bust was enjoyed in their back yard by the Barker Selma, Jim Bridges, Bill Mehews, Ross Mendenhalls and Arledge Hills.

School Opening Delayed One Week -- To Start Sept. 8th

The "Back-to-the-School" movement will get under way on Monday, Sept. 8th, unless more cases of Polio are reported in this area, and in spite of their loud and long protest to the contrary most of the students are glad to get back to the daily routine of lessons.

This year the young people will have more room in their classes and throughout their school than ever before with the new school being put into use as soon as classes commence. So far there has been no definite date set for the official opening of the new building but it is understood that it will be about a month after school begins.

Queen's Representative To Visit Here October 8th

When His Excellency, the Governor-General of Canada, makes his western tour in October it will be the Sugar City's privilege to entertain him for some three hours. Mayor F. R. Taylor has been advised that the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey and his party will arrive in Raymond at 10:15 a.m. and will tour the sugar factory and other points of interest here and then be honored guest at a courtesy luncheon. Because of the short time the con.

Plans for this important social event have not as yet been completed but we hope to keep our readers posted as things develop.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Steed and family spent Sunday in Cardston where they were the dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Steed.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brandley entertained at a dinner party on Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Neto Karaki, Mrs. Karaki having lived at the Brandley home several years while going to school. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Iwaasa, Mrs. Matsuo Moriama, Mrs. Toru Iwaasa, Miss Sumi Iwaasa and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brandley.

Earl Milner and son Jimmy of Livingston, Montana are visiting relatives and friends in town this week. While here they are the guests of Mr. Milner's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Milner.

Thieves Break Into Local Business

Investigation is still going on concerning the burglaries that occurred in town either late Sunday night or early Monday morning. The yeggs gained entrance to both the Dahl Motors and Karl Wilde buildings by breaking the glass in the front doors.

At Dahl Motors only a small amount of change and a mantle radio were taken and at Karl Wilde's less than twenty dollars was taken from the till. The cash register in both garages had been rifled and at the Wilde office the break-in artists had tried to pry the handle off the safe but had failed.

It is believed that the same thugs were responsible for a break-in at Magrath.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamp Witbeck have left for a couple of weeks vacation. They plan to visit the Don and Reid Holmans in Portland and the Marlon Witbecks in Eugene, Oregon while away.

Mr. and Mrs. Derald Miller and family returned Wednesday afternoon from the United States where they have lived the past two months or so. Derald attended Summer School at the Oregon State College at Corvallis for two months and then they motored to Los Angeles where they did a lot of sight seeing and visited relatives; returning home by way of Provo and Salt Lake.

While in Oregon Derald and his brother Martin, who was also studying there, had the experience of doing some deep sea fishing. Although the breakers were 25 feet high they struck it out and each brought back a big salmon as a trophy. Derald even brought the proof back home with him, having had the salmon canned in half a dozen pound tins.

They said they had a wonderful time this summer, but possibly the best part of it was coming home again.

Clarebell Anderson's Version

Raymond is known as the home of Stampedes,
So come on you folks let's get rid of the weeds.

We want a town so pleasing to see,
That is where we would all like to be.

Each one has a load in this world to carry,
So let's pull together and one should tarry.

There is many a job around Town to be done,
So come one and all and let's make it fun.

Of course there are people who will always complain,
But look at the trash out in their back lane.

The Council is there to do what they can,
They want to do the best for each man.

So never belittle their strenuous work,
Get in there and help and let's not shirk.

The Lady Disagrees With Her Husband

It seems our friend "John J's" wife does not share his somewhat brusque manner of presentation because she made her suggestions by way of a poem. If you haven't already read it at the top of the page we suggest that you do.

CORRECTION

In our last paper it was reported that a recent funeral was held in Cranbrook for the late Nepht Anderson. This name should have been Nepht Atwood. We are sincerely sorry for the error.

Mrs. Orrin Turner entertained at a Farewell Party recently for Mrs. Arch Terry, with the ladies spending the evening visiting and sewing follow by the serving of a nice lunch by the hostess.

A new era of mountain railroading in Canada is being unfolded as modern streamlined Canadian Pacific Railway diesels, the first to go into service in the Rocky Mountains, replace steam locomotives, longtime conquerors of the steep slopes and rugged mountain wilderness. Pictured are two of 48 new diesel units which the C. P. R. has acquired since last fall to dieselize train operations in the Rockies and Alberta foothills between Revelstoke, B. C., and Calgary, Alta., as they pull a passenger train past towering peaks near Lake Louise. Passenger and freight trains on this run, one of the toughest in the world, are being given diesel power as part of the railway's five year dieselization program. An additional 18 road and switch engines will be delivered before this fall to completely dieselize the area.

United Church Scene Of Palderman-Kindt Wedding

The United Church, beautifully decorated with summer flowers, was the scene of the wedding at which Miss Joanne Palderman exchanged vows with Woolley Kindt, on Saturday at 2 p.m. Rev. Pentland officiated and Mrs. Grant played the wedding music.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was gown in white floorlength satin which was designed with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with tulle matching that which trimmed the peplum. The three-quarter length veil fell softly from the garland of tulle, and she carried a lovely bouquet of mixed flowers.

Mea Bosman and Corry Palderman, as bridesmaids, wore afternoon frocks of mauve and pink respectively and flowers wreathed in their hair, while two of the bride's sisters, Jean and Sally Palderman were flower girls. Their dresses were of white silk. Mrs. Kindt chose for the occasion a navy blue floral silk frock while the bride's mother wore a wine tailored suit with white accessories.

Pierre Bosman was the groom's best man.

A dinner party was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kindt prior to the wedding, and immediately following the ceremony the relatives and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Palderman to extend their best wishes to the newlyweds and partake of a dainty lunch.

Thanks For The Helpful Letter

The writer of the very nice letter we received this week will notice that we are indeed using some of her suggestions but, after consulting with Webster and a few other of the learned class, we find that there are a few of them that we cannot bring ourselves to use. To the friend who took the time to give us a helping hand we offer our sincere thanks.

The Ben Kindt home was gayly decorated with a profusion of blooms recently when Miss Joanne Palderman was feted at a Calling Shower. Fifty-five guests registered at the Guest Book, which was presided over by Jean Mohar, and extended their wishes to the honoree. Corry Palderman received and arranged the lovely gifts.

A delightful lunch was served the guests by Mrs. Kindt, Mrs. Palderman, Mrs. Dorothy Sudo and Mrs. Steve Kindt.

Spare Your Kitchen Counter

There is no place in your kitchen that gets harder wear than the counter tops, says Miss Caroline Judson, Home Designing Specialist, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Very durable substances are available now and they usually have a guarantee. They will probably last for years, but they require care if you wish to keep them colorful and attractive.

Stainless steel needs a little attention every day. It should be washed and then wiped with a dry cloth. A good metal polish will remove the cloudy, dull film. A fine scouring powder with a few drops of ammonia added will form a paste which will clean the surface. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Fine steel wool (or finer) will remove scratches. Monel metal requires the same care as stainless steel.

Plastic counter tops are hard and durable. Sharp knives and hot utensils can do serious damage, so use some care. Soap and water will clean plastic; apply a cream wax or the new silicone polish for a brighter shine.

Linooleum needs a coat of wax once a month to prolong its life. If you wish to avoid spotting don't let soapy water stand on the counter for very long. If water is allowed to seep under linooleum it will destroy it. Watch particularly at the joints and around the sink; a special waterproof gasket may be used at the sink.

Maple provides a durable counter topping or cutting surface. Deal with stains promptly; meat juice and grease may be scoured with abrasives. Rinse well. Berry and tomato stains respond to chlorine bleach solution (1 tsp. to 1 cup of water). Rinse well. Rub the board with linseed oil for easier cleaning.

"99" Products — Goodrich Tires

Veal can be the headliner for your menus this month. It is in good supply at present and quite reasonably priced. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture tell us that since veal is not sold according to grade, it is an advantage to be able to judge the quality of the meat by its appearance.

Good quality veal should be greyish pink, firm and fine grained and there should be a fair amount of creamy white fat on it. The bones should be reddish in color and fairly soft and porous.

The home economists have found that many homemakers do not serve veal very often, not because they do not like it but because they do not know which cuts to buy or, for that matter, what the cuts actually are. The home economists, always alert to the needs of the customer, offer some very timely information. They say that veal carcasses are not always cut up the same way, but list some of the cuts that are usually found in the butcher shop.

Three Kinds of Chops

First of all, there are three kinds of chops — loin, rib and shoulder. There are two kinds of steak, one from the top of the leg, which corresponds to the round steak in beef, and the other from the shoulder. The ever popular veal cutlets are small pieces of roast.

First, there is leg veal. The bone is usually removed from the leg which leaves a slit or pocket all ready to fill with well-seasoned bread stuffing. Then there are rump and sirloin roasts. The butcher may also sell loin roasts but usually the loin is cut up into chops. Last but not least there are the lower priced roasts from the front quarter, the breast and shoulder roasts. Sometimes the whole front is boned and rolled then cut into roasts of three to four pounds.

(Everyone needs a laugh occasionally and ours came the other day while reading the proof of this article. The "i" and the "o" were transposed with such regularity that we thought you might get a smile out of the result too — of course the word should be "loin" not "lion".)

Right and Wrong Way

There is a right and wrong way to do most things and there is a right and wrong way to cook veal. The right way is to cook it slowly and cook it long. It is hard to understand why veal needs long cooking since it comes from a young animal but the home economists point out that there is considerable connective tissue in veal which does not become tender quickly.

Actually, veal takes longer to cook than beef. It is never served rare as beef very often is because the meat is not tender until it is well done. That is why veal should be roasted longer than other meats. It should be roasted to the point where the meat thermometer reaches 185 degrees F., which means allowing 40-45 minutes for each pound. In other words, a four pound roast needs two and three-quarters to three hours cooking.

Most of the cuts of good quality veal can be roasted, that is, cooked in an uncovered pan without water. The temperature to use is the same as for other meats, that is, 325 F., or in other words, a moderately slow oven. Here is an other point about roasting veal. Before putting the roast in the oven, put several pieces of bacon over the top of it or cover the top with bacon fat. This gives the meat a very good flavor. At the same time it adds fat that most veal needs to make enough dripping so that the roast can be basted occasionally while it is cooking.

Cooking Veal Chops

Here is the way the home economists suggest cooking veal chops. Cutlets and veal steaks are cooked in the same way. To begin with, the chops may be breaded by dipping them in crumbs, egg and then crumbs again or they may be simply dipped in seasoned flour. Next, they are browned in just enough hot fat to keep them from sticking to the pan.

Bacon fat is good to use because it gives the veal more flavor. After three to five minutes browning, the chops should be covered and cooked slowly, either on top of the stove or in a 325 degrees F., oven until the meat is tender. Chops about one-half inch thick will need about 12 minutes cooking on each side or about 25 minutes altogether. Steaks and cutlets the same thickness should take slightly more cooking, about 15 minutes on each side.

The reason for covering the pan is, of course, to keep the meat moist. Another way to cook the chops is to add some liquid, well-seasoned tomato juice for example, to the pan after the chops are browned. Then the pan is covered and the meat cooked until tender.

BREADED VEAL CUTLETS

1 egg
2 tablespoons water
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional)
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
6 veal cutlets (or chops) ½" thick
Fat or drippings

Combine slightly beaten egg and water. Add salt, pepper and poultry seasoning to bread crumbs. Dip cutlets in crumbs, then egg and then crumbs again.

Top of stove: Brown breaded cutlets on both sides about 5 minutes in hot fat or dripping using a heavy frying pan. Cover and continue until done, about 25-30 minutes, turn occasionally.

Oven Method: Brown breaded cutlets on both sides in hot fat or dripping in a heavy frying pan, about 5 minutes. Cover and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., until done, about 15 minutes on each side. Serve 6.

VEAL BIRDS

1½ to 2 pounds veal steak about ½ inch thick
Salt and pepper
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
½ teaspoon savory
2 tablespoons melted fat
½ cup diced celery
1-2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
Flour
Fat
¼-½ cup water

Cut veal in pieces approximately 2" by 4" and pound to flatten. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spread with dressing made by combining bread crumbs, salt, pepper, melted fat, celery and onion. Roll and tie securely. Roll veal birds in flour. Yield: 9 to 12 birds.

Top of stove: Brown meat on all sides in hot fat in heavy frying pan. Add ½ cup water, cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 45-55 minutes. Use drippings in pan to make gravy.

Oven Method: Brown meat on all sides in hot fat in a heavy frying pan or roasting pan. Add ½ cup water, cover and bake in moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., until done, about 1½ hours.
